ABSTRACT

This bibliography of environmental services is designed for general orientation and not intended as a comprehensive listing. Reference is made only to information systems initiated by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) or those which contain reference to EPA services. The booklet is divided into three sections: (1) EPA information systems, (2) other government agencies information systems which include EPA publications, and (3) non-government information systems which include EPA publications. Major topics covered are air, noise, water, radiation, solid waste, pesticides, permits, environmental impact statements, and general. Information in each section includes program name, publications available through that program, computer services of the program, and the sources from which publications and services may be obtained.

This bibliography of environmental services is designed to be used with a slide presentation in an orientation program. It is not intended to be a comprehensive listing of environmental bibliographies. The only bibliographies, publications and information systems listed are those initiated by EPA or those which contain reference to EPA services.

The bibliography is divided into three sections:

1. EPA information systems.
2. Other government agencies information systems which include EPA publications.
3. Non-government information systems which include EPA publications.
